

THE WEATHER

CHINA

No. 38090

Calm at first, with a moderate southwesterly breeze developing during the afternoon. Fine. At 1 pm at the Observatory the temp was 87 degrees F and the relative humid 70 per cent.

LATE FINAL

MAIL

Established 1845

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1961.

Price 20 Cents.

Comment of the day

LIVING TOGETHER

A encouraging aspect of contemporary Hongkong is the reciprocal interest displayed by the Chinese and Europeans in the customs and traditions peculiar to both civilizations.

It is encouraging, because although the Chinese and the Europeans have lived alongside each other in Hongkong for over a hundred years, time was when each observed the other merely with curiosity, standing aloof, as it were, from the celebrations associated with the festivals particular to each race.

More recent years have brought greater appreciation, and with it a practical participation in the festivals which were once entirely peculiar to each but are now becoming more common to both Chinese and Europeans.

For instance, the Dragon Boat Festival now sees an annual entry by a European crew who usually go under in both the metaphorical and actual sense.

THE fact that they designate themselves the "Fan Kwal Lo" is itself symbolic of the times. Time was when this term was hurled with scorn at the first of the traders who invaded the domains of the Celestial Kingdom; now the term is adopted with good humour.

Christmas and Chinese New Year are festivals in which increasing numbers of foreigners and Chinese find common interest, and doubtless a greater number of moon-cakes have been devoured by foreigners this year than ever before, while thousands of foreigners have gazed at the brilliantly lighted confectioners' shops with the added pleasure born of greater appreciation.

Sunday was the day of the Full Moon Festival and this, the most beautiful of all festivals, was witnessed under good circumstances.

TO see the great autumn moon rise in a cloudless sky over Hongkong is one of the sights of the world. And to be a guest at a Chinese Moon Festival party is something; to stand gazing across the harbour at the moon slowly rises and to see the distant hills lighted up, while the lantern decked craft float to and fro upon the calm water, is to defy description.

A story goes with it, or really, several stories, but it is rather bold to tell it here where a thousand will write in to give their own particular variation of traditional lore.

ONE version told locally had a famous beauty, Sheung Ngoo, take the gift of elixir of immortality, which led to her being transplanted to the moon. Some say she was there turned into a frog; some Chinese contradict this, asking, how can you say a woman comes from the moon (meaning she is beautiful) when the moon lady was transformed into a frog.

But the real purpose of this is not so much an excursion into folk lore as to show how well people of different races can find so much in common; and how Hongkong a most cosmopolitan community can find peace and harmony among people differing folkish traditions.

'We could be in a very serious position,' says Sir Robert HK AND THE COMMON MARKET

Governor visits Macleod in England

By COLIN RICKARDS

London, Sept. 26. Hongkong's Governor, Sir Robert Black, has seen the Colonial Secretary Mr Iain Macleod about the effect on Hongkong's trading future if Britain enters the Common Market.

"I hope that we shall hear Hongkong's industrial voice through the Federation speaking on behalf of all industries", he said.

"Hongkong will be in a very serious position. Indeed if due to Britain entering the Common Market, we lose the tariff and concessions that we now have," Sir Robert told me.

"We could face very serious competition and find ourselves priced almost off the markets if we lose our tariff 'umbrella'."

Sympathetic

"Mr Macleod was most sympathetic about Hongkong's problems, and so was Mr Maudlin when I saw him at the Board of Trade. But they have to consider the other Commonwealth countries as well as Hongkong," he added.

If Britain enters the European Economic Community, Hongkong will most certainly find herself losing the 17½ per cent tariff 'umbrella' it now has. And Hongkong may find its tax as much as 15 per cent added to her goods entering Common Market countries.

"To us, the Common Market is a frightening thing," added Sir Robert. "The situation in the future could be critically serious."

All branches

Sir Robert said that he hoped that Hongkong's new Federation of Hongkong Industries would be able to make an impact in world trading.

The Federation covers all the branches of the Colony's industry from textiles and plastics to toys and light electrical engineering projects.

CONVICTED FRENCH OFFICERS ESCAPE

Paris, Sept. 25. Two French officers, jailed after the "Paris plot" trial last week, escaped today while being transferred to hospital.

They were Col. Roland Vaudrey, jailed for 10 years last week, and Capt. Philippe Saint-Rome, sentenced to five-year prison term for their part in the plot in mainland France that was aimed at overthrowing President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic at the time the French Generals staged a coup in Algiers in April.

Both officers were held at Fresnes Prison on the outskirts of Paris after the trial, pending transfer to a permanent jail. They asked for medical attention at Val de Grace Hospital. Soon after they arrived there the two officers disappeared.

HURRICANE ESTHER

Boston, Sept. 25. Gale force winds and heavy rain, the lingering effects of Hurricane Esther, looped around over the Atlantic Ocean during the weekend and are heading back for another attack on the northeast coast, the weather bureau reported today.

The storm, now diminished from full hurricane force, is located 275 miles south of Nantucket Island, Massachusetts and is drifting north at about 10 miles an hour, the weather bureau said.—UPI.

Appeal to Kruschev, Kennedy

London, Sept. 25. Mr Emmanuel Shinwell, a former Minister of Defence in the Labour Party, and 58 other Labour Members of Parliament today wrote to President Kennedy and Mr Kruschev appealing to them to take "immediate steps to relax tension."

The joint letter said the steps should include:

- An undertaking by both sides to hasten negotiations and to avoid military action over Berlin.
- An immediate moratorium on nuclear test explosions pending a final disarmament agreement.—Reuter.

INJURED ACTOR-EXPLORER MAROONED

Former radio actor and explorer Duncan Carson is marooned, injured, on the barren windswept island of South Georgia, Antarctica, it was learned today.

The former hero of the radio thriller serial, Dick Barton, faces a three-week wait before any ships are due at the lonely whaling station which he reached, suffering from exhaustion and heart trouble. He hopes to return south to salvage supplies. It was sold in London today. Mr Carson is the first man to winter alone on the south of the island. He sailed from England last September to spend 18 months surveying unmapped territory and film in wild life.

Mr Vivian Fuchs, leader of the 1958 Trans-Antarctic expedition said today: "To cross the island alone at this time is a tremendousfeat"—UPI.

SLIM TURNS BACK ON ISRAELI MINISTER

United Nations, Sept. 26. Eyewitnesses said Mongi Slim of Tunisia, Arab President of the UN General Assembly, turned his back on Israeli Foreign Minister Mrs Golda Meir today as she offered to shake hands with him at President Kennedy's reception here.

They said Mrs Meir and Israeli Ambassador Mr Michael Conay had shaken hands with US Ambassador Mr Adlai E. Stevenson, US Dean Rusk and President Kennedy when they came opposite Mr Slim at the end of the receiving line.

At that point the informants related, Slim turned around and began talking with his predecessor in the Assembly chair, Mr Frederick H. Boland of Ireland.

Slim's Arab country does not recognise Israel, and joins in an Arab League economic boycott of the Jewish state.—AP.

EMERGENCY

Cudahy, Calif., Sept. 26. Two cars from the Bell Police Department and two from the Firestone Sheriff's Station raced to Atlantic boulevard, where a man was reported walking north with a gun in his hand.

They found a man walking north carrying a live crowd.—UPI.

IN LIEU

Durham, Sept. 26. Neither Fred Tease nor his girl friend had a shooting when they drove onto the toll bridge.

Noting traffic piling up, collector Marie Diddlebrook asked for anything worth a shilling.

Tease handed him three cigarettes, two penny chocolate bars and a package of fruit gum—and drove off.—UPI.

METHODS

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 26. Chancellor W.T. Horton told a group of women seeking divorces yesterday, "If you used the same techniques to keep your husband as you did to get them you wouldn't be in this court."

—UPI.

Estimate

Apparently, they were scared away by the arrival of a bell boy from nearby hotel.

The manager of the Clerc Shop tonight placed the estimate of the loss at 2.5 million new francs.

Among the objects taken were a gold ring set with an enormous diamond, valued at US$175,000, a necklace with six large diamonds, worth US$60,000 and a ruby and diamond bracelet priced at US$22,000.

The Riviera, long known as a vacationers' paradise, was also a profitable stopping place for criminals this summer.

In the past two months, more than a US$1 million worth of gems, furs and money have been stolen from shops or individuals living in the sumptuous villas which dot the Mediterranean coast.

The Monte Carlo robbery today was the biggest prize of the lot and it could have been even bigger.

The bandits rushed away with only about half the stock in the shop.—UPI.

Bandits get away after US$500,000 robbery

Monte Carlo, Sept. 25. Three masked bandits swept into a jewellery store facing the Monte Carlo casino, and scooped up rings, necklaces and bracelets valued at US$500,000.

Smugglers go to jail

Penang, Sept. 25. The captain of a coaster, who said he brought a cargo of rubber to Penang from Indonesia on the instructions of a rebel leader, was today sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

He is 27-year-old Tan Ban-nan, who was convicted of dishonesty retaining 181 bales of rubber and 30 piculs of scrap.

Six seamen, who made up his crew, were also sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

'NOT GUILTY'

They all pleaded not guilty.

The magistrate ruled that the sentences should date from August 10 when the men were first remanded.

He also ordered that the boat be returned to the accused after they had served their sentences and the rubber to its respective owners.—Reuter.

Dag's successor:

GROMYKO PROPOSES TEMPORARY SOLUTION

United Nations, Sept. 25. Mr Andrei Gromyko, Soviet Foreign Minister, said today that a temporary solution of the succession problem in the UN Secretariat could be reached for a trial period.

He made the comment in an informal question and answer period with reporters after an hour-long talk with the British Foreign Secretary, the Earl of Home.

This idea of three deputies would serve for a trying period, he added.—Reuter.

They are Dr Hermann-Ernst Jahr, 51, former Gestapo commander at Tilsit, Poland, and two of his assistants, Wilhelm Gerke, 50, and Alfred Krumbach, 54.

Most of the opening day was taken up with technical details and the reading of captured Nazi documents, one of which said the Lithuanians helped turn in Jews and Communists to be executed.

The three have been in custody since summer, 1958.—UPI.

SORRY, MADAM!

El Centro, Calif., Sept. 25. A mother who called the police desk and said she was having "trouble with my little boy and need an officer to come and scare him" got a polite answer.

Officer Lou Polite answered: "We do not scare children." The mother thanked him and hung up.—UPI.

JET NORTHWEST-SHORTEST, FASTEST ROUTE FROM TOKYO TO THE U.S.A.

Only Northwest flies the big jets—the DC-8's—between Tokyo, Korea, Okinawa, Taipeh and Manila

NORTHWEST FLIES

... Polar Imperial Jets to New York from Tokyo—more than 6 hours faster than any other airline.

... only one-airline service from Tokyo to 35 U.S. cities.

And Northwest pays your connecting fare from Seattle to San Francisco or Los Angeles.

NORTHWEST Orient AIRLINES

Ticket Office: St. George's Bldg., Ice House Street
Telephone 21128, 38660, 38661

CHINA MAIL

HONGKONG
Telephone 26611 (5 lines)
PUBLISHED DAILY
(Afternoons)
Noon Edition
Late Print Extra
Price: 25 cents per copy
Postage: 50 cents

Monthly subscription rates—
(including Saturday Edition)
Local ..... $5.00
China & Macao ..... $8.00
(Seamail postage included)
All other countries ..... $12.00
(Seamail postage included)

News contributions should be addressed to the Editor, business communications and advertisements to the Secretary, subscription to the newspaper delivery inquiries to the Circulation Manager.

KOWLOON OFFICE
Nursery Road
Telephone 4163

Classified
Advertisements

20 WORDS $4.00
for 1 DAY PREPAID
ADDITIONAL INSERTIONS
$2.00 PER DAY

10 cents PER WORD OVER 20
Births, Deaths, Marriages,
Personal $5.00 per insertion not exceeding 25 words, 25 cents each additional word.

ALTERNATE INSERTIONS
10% EXTRA
If not prepaid booking fee of 50 cents is charged.

CAR SERVICE

ZF GARAGES LTD. can underspray your car with a special paint which will not affect rubber or any other vital parts of your car. We also offer a special service for small or medium size cars: $15 for large cars. For appointment please telephone ZF Garages Ltd. 774101 and ask for Mr. Tang.

FOR SALE

KEEP CLOTHES FRESH—Ready to wear in plastic garment bags $1.00 and $1.50 ea. Tyres 31A, Pottinger Street

GIVE A LIFE to your bathroom with shower curtain. Many new designs. $15. $17.50 and $21.00 ea. Tyres 31A, Pottinger Street

SLEEP LIKE ROYALTY on Ariel new curled feather pillows. Only $10.00 each. Tykes, Pottinger Street.

NEW SPRINGMAID SHEETS in combed percale. White $7.20 $10.00 and $12.00. Solid $9.00 and $12.00. Slips $10. pair. Candy striped $9.00 and $12.00 ea. Tykes 31A, Pottinger Street. $7.20 $10.00 and $12.00 ea. Tykes 31A, Pottinger Street.

TRULY ABSORBENT are the Indian LEMI towels. 14 x 22 $1.40 each. 16 x 26 $1.60 and 18 x 24 $2.00. Solid $1.00 and $1.20 each. Available in white and solid colours at Tykes.

WANHIALE TUMBLE TWIST rugs $31.00 ea. Sundown bath mats $1.40 each. Bath mats, hand towels, articles of durable cloth, lace curtains, sewing notions, ribbons, dress shields, household, at Tykes. 31A, Pottinger Street.

BUTTERICK dress patterns and all the sewing notions you'll ever need—zippers, buttons, elastic, sewing notions, ribbons, dress shields, household, at Tykes. 31A, Pottinger Street.

BEST-ENT LINGERIE—Half slips, full-slip, girdles, dirndl, girdles, camisoles in crepe, nylon cotton and dacron. New stock—all sizes. Tykes. 31A, Pottinger Street.

THIS WEEK'S OFFER in Sennet Manchester Arcade (window): Three pairs of diamond stud earrings over half a carat each pair, set in white gold imported settings. Price from HK$1200 to HK$400 per pair.

SELECT YOUR STEAK and have it charcoal broiled at your table in the Cafe Galano, 214 Prince Edward. You'll have delicious fountain patio and special in fine Viennese cuisine at moderate prices. Telephone 820772 and reserve your table.

GARDENING

FREESIA, HYACINTH, RANUNCULUS, Daffodils, Anemones, Iris, CROCUS, Tulips, Lilies, Lavender, Wreath, Wallflowers, Primroses, Rosemary, Kewia, Osmunda, Sphagnummous, rose geraniums taken. Anglo-Chinese, Pedder Building, 20053.

POSITIONS WANTED COMMERCIAL

EXPERIENCED young man with science honours degree seeking top position. Mining metal minerals and ore dealing preferred. Excellent reference. Box 444, "China Mail."

PREMISES TO LET KOWLOON

MIRADOR MANSIONS: Two top floor flats for rent or sale. Top floor, Flint A-12. Phone 80071.

WANTED KNOWN

CHILDREN LOVE "ANTEPAR"—Will you keep your family warm-free with regular planned doses of "Antepar" Elixir or Tablets. WANT TO REDUCE INCHES AND WEIGHT. Improve circulation? Call Blunderland, 28882, 4 Printing House Street. Trial treatment. Amazing results.

JAPANESE — CHINESE MASSAGE

Time: 9 a.m.-3 p.m.
Flat 4, 4th Floor, Alhambra Bldg.
329, Nathan Road, Kowloon.
Please telephone for outside services
9 a.m.-3 p.m., 7 p.m.-10 p.m.
TEL: 64943-4

CHINESE MASSAGE SALON

Steam Bath & Turkish Bath
8th fl. Flat A-7, Mirador Mansion
34-64 Nathan Road, Kowloon.
Hours 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. inc. Sundays

A strange obsession that led to murder

THE strange obsession of beautiful Ann Kierman led to murder the other night when she killed her psychiatrist's wife in his Fifth Avenue waiting room.

For Ann, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets. She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a 26-year-old schoolteacher, was convinced that Dr Albert Laverne, a senior psychiatrist at New York's Bellevue Hospital, was giving away her couch secrets.

She had seen people on TV mimicking her, she told police, so he must have been discussing her with other people.

KIERMAN, a

KING'S · BROADWAY

TEL: 253/3

TEL: 52525

NOW SHOWING — 6TH BIG WEEK!

THREE PERFORMANCES DAILY

At 2.30, 5.30
& 9.00 p.m.At 2.30, 6.00
& 9.15 p.m.

Admission: $2.00 to $4.70

CHINESE OPERA IN ENGLISH

WAH YAN DRAMATIC SOCIETY

In honour of

Hong Kong University Golden Jubilee Celebration presents

A LIZARD IS NO DRAGON

鴉雀如何作鳳凰

A CHINESE OPERA IN ENGLISH

29th &amp; 30th September at 8.30 p.m.

WAH YAN COLLEGE THEATRE

Waterloo Road, Kowloon,

TICKETS: $10 &amp; $5

BOOKINGS: Moutrie's, Alexandra House, Miramar Arcade

PRINCESS

TO-DAY & TO-MORROW ONLY
AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.LEE • PRINCESS Opening Thursday
28th Sept.DOROTHY MALONE JOSEPH COTTER CAROL LYNNIE RIVILLE BRAVO
BOOKINGS NOW OPEN!LEE TO-NIGHT AT 7.30 P.M.
SIEN FUNG MING CANTONESE OPERA

Presents

"THE ROMANCE OF THE WHITE SNAKE"
(傳新蛇白)
COMMENCING THURSDAY, 28th SEPT.
Rock HUDSON • Kirk DOUGLAS
"THE LAST SUNSET"
In Eastman Colour!
BOOKINGS NOW OPEN!SHAW CIRCUIT
HOOVER GALA

SHOWING TO-DAY: 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 &amp; 9.30 P.M.

'Britain has the best climate'

London, Sept. 25. The impression that Britain was a land of smog and blizzard was "a gross libel", Lord Mancroft said here.

"We as a nation are doing great harm by giving voice to this legend about the British weather," Lord Mancroft, chairman of a travel firm, told members of the Institute of Marketing and Sales Management.

It did great harm to Britain's tourist trade, he said.

"If you look at the statistics, the tourist has his plans interfered with by the weather, less than in any other country in the world," he claimed.

"We have far and away the best climate all the year round and it is time we said so loudly and clearly," Lord Mancroft declared. — China Mail Special.

Biggest car park

Birmingham, Sept. 25. Claimed to be the biggest of its kind in the world, a nine-floor multi-storey car park capable of housing 3,300 cars was opened today at the Austin factory here.

Cars will be stacked in the park after being completed and will await collection. The factory, owned by the British Motor Corporation, turns out 8,000 vehicles a week and 3,300 cars represents only about two days' production.

The car park is part of a £49 million expansion plan aimed at increasing production capacity to one million vehicles a year. — China Mail Special.

Although the situation may not be so bad as it sounds, the trouble was by no means similar.

"We cannot be sure of using any insecticide without developing resistance," he said.

"In Britain, the only species

so far known to have shown resistance were the housefly and the cockroach." — China

Mail Special.

Instances have since multiplied all over the world until 1960 there were reports of resistance by some 50 species of public health importance and about the same number of agricultural pests.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM

Insects becoming resistant to insecticides

London, Sept. 25. Increasing resistance among insects to modern insecticides was causing serious practical problems, the annual conference of British public health inspectors was told at Bournemouth.

Dr James Busvine of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine said first cases of resistance were found among houseflies in 1947.

Painters, who uses hammer, exhibits in London

London, Sept. 25. An exhibition of the works of an Austrian-born woman artist who "paints" her pictures with a hammer, a chisel and a steel drill has opened here.

It is the first time the artist, Miss Anna Meyrson, has exhibited in London for 12 years.

Miss Meyrson, who has lived in Sicily for the last 10 years, claims to have started a new movement in modern art.

London, Sept. 25. Flight Sergeant P. Maloney, 34, Royal Air Force, who with Staff Sergeant Instructor M. Evans of the Parachute Regiment broke the trans-United States walking record in 1960, has been awarded the Royal Air Force Escaping Society Trophy.

The trophy is presented annually for the best individual feat of combat survival by a RAF member during operations or training.

Flight Sergeant Maloney, whose home is at Kilmallock, County Limerick, Irish Republic, and his companion, walked from San Francisco to New York in 90 days compared with the previous record of 180 days.

The route took them across deserts, mountains, salt flats and vast plains, and through whirlwinds, snow, dust and electric storms. — China Mail Special.

London, Sept. 25. Flight Sergeant P. Maloney, 34, Royal Air Force, who with Staff Sergeant Instructor M. Evans of the Parachute Regiment broke the trans-United States walking record in 1960, has been awarded the Royal Air Force Escaping Society Trophy.

She makes her pictures out of an assortment of chicken wire, biscuit tins, copper and iron sheeting. She acquired her technical skill with drills and hammers in Sicily, where she has been building houses for rich visitors.

Miss Meyrson, who studied painting at the Museum Art School in Zurich and the Vienna Academy, said she had decided to settle in London permanently.

Her unusual choice of materials has helped her to solve the problem of using the effects of tension, animation and anxiety to create a coherent image," she said. — China Mail Special.

Flight Sergeant Maloney, whose home is at Kilmallock, County Limerick, Irish Republic, and his companion, walked from San Francisco to New York in 90 days compared with the previous record of 180 days.

The route took them across deserts, mountains, salt flats and vast plains, and through whirlwinds, snow, dust and electric storms. — China Mail Special.

Panzer men eat four times as many potatoes

German Panzer troops at Castlemartin ranges, Pembrokeshire, are eating four times the potatoes consumed by British soldiers.

A German spokesman said during a press visit to the camp: "The British quartermaster here states that the amount of potatoes consumed by 500 German soldiers would be sufficient to feed 2,000 British soldiers."

Lt. Col. Karl Von Kleist, commanding officer of the 84th

CAPITOL

TO-DAY
AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30
& 9.30 P.M.

TOHO CO. presents

ANYTHING GOES 3D DOLL'S WAY

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

3 SHOWS TO-DAY
At 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 p.m.

SHAW CIRCUIT
TEL: 82-4304

LOGAN GOURLAY

Roulette on the ramparts...
yes, they're making
the Rock a resort

An incongruous setting, I would have thought, for a casino. The solid, once-impenetrable Rock of Gibraltar which looks grim and threatening even bathed in Mediterranean sunshine (as it is most months of the year). But a casino it will have. A £1,000,000 edifice to gambling, probably the biggest in Europe—and certainly the most up to date.

The final plans were approved a few days ago. Building will start immediately and I expect an invitation to the opening within 18 months.

Hacemat among the battlements, Roulette near the ramparts. Chez les de fer where the cannon balls fell. The intrepid men of history who died defending the Rock must be turning in their gritty graves.

But the fact is that Gibraltar in the nuclear age can no longer exist just as a fortress. It must turn itself into a tourist centre.

Tourism

The waters that have harboured a thousand battleships must attract the millionaires' yachts.

I stopped there on the way back from holiday in Southern Spain and talked to two of the men chiefly concerned—Sol Seruya, chairman of the Tourism Board, and Darrel Bates, the Colonial Secretary.

Said Mr Seruya, dark-eyed and earnest: "We've got to develop tourism. There isn't much room for any other industry here."

"At the same time we don't want to make the place into a Concentration Camp. We want to preserve the historical traditions and all that."

"It's not easy."

Mr Seruya looked worried, as well he might.

Diplomat

Mr Bates, one of those tolerant, intelligent, unpatronising diplomats who restores your faith in what's left of the Colonial Service, had this to say:

"I've been here for eight years and the casting has become one of my pet projects. But we encountered all kinds of snags."

"We decided to offer the concession to operate the casino to a syndicate. None of us knew anything about it. But it's been difficult to find the right one with enough finance."

"And we had to be certain they would run it properly and that we weren't handing it over to a bunch of crooks."

"We also had to be sure they wouldn't take the concession and hawk it around to other bidders."

"At one time we thought it might be an Anglo-American venture, but now it may be entirely financed by local and British interests."

"When I left Messrs Bates and Seruya I met a Gibraltarian with a good memory for faces although he was obviously not mixed up."

"Ah," he said, "welcome back, Mr Harvey. Maybe you have come back to wed again. If you have not brought the bride we can offer a wide selection."

You have to admit it. At least, there's a new spirit of enterprise in the old fortress.

Official maintenance allowance for Gibraltar's Barbary apes (which specialise in stealing wind-screws from tourists' ears) has just been raised from 4d. a day per hairy head to 6d.

They got it without sending a deputation to the Governor threatening strike action.

Record

"Even without the casting we look like having record tourist figures this year. We expect visitors to spend well over £2,000,000," he added.

"I've been organising other attractions. We've just finished the Week of the Sea—singing, sailing, skin-diving. Earlier in the season we had the Arts Festival."

"That included concerts and ballet staged in St Michael's Cave—a unique setting. It is the finest natural auditorium in Europe, with the finest acoustics."

Despite the cave with its acoustics I fear that Gibraltar will still need its casino before it rivals the leading European resorts.

Certainly it has the climate. It also has shops which have the worst window displays I've seen, but which offer duty-free pens, lighters, cameras, and whisky at £1 a bottle.

At night, I'm afraid, the whole place still retains an air of snags.

"We decided to offer the concession to operate the casino to a syndicate. None of us knew anything about it. But it's been difficult to find the right one with enough finance."

"And we had to be certain they would run it properly and

THE PRINCE'S GUNMEN

PRINCE HOHENLOHE is the owner of the Marbella Club Hotel on Spain's Costa del Sol. He is also the ex-husband of Princess Ira Hirshberg.

After their divorce, and many melodramatic moments in South America, she married playboy "Baby" Pignatari, but shows up startlingly on an X-ray. Sometimes the radiologist cannot be quite certain if the shadow is altogether healed and he might require his patient to have a sputum test.

"But you are jumping the gun," I said. "I bet you will be cleared tomorrow."

In any case, the mass X-ray doctors are not looking only for lung ailments. A chest X-ray shows more than the lung fields. It lets bare also the bony chest cage, the thoracic spine, the diaphragm, and the heart.

"Oh," said Mr. Anderson. "Perhaps I have an abnormal heart shadow then."

Mr. Anderson wouldn't let me examine him clinically. He half-wished he hadn't gone for a mass X-ray in the first place. He just didn't want to know any more.

Early sign

But people should take advantage of mass X-ray facilities. A shadow thus discovered could be an early sign of some ailment. And doctors can always deal much more effectively and quickly with an early illness than with one that's been smouldering on and on quietly for years.

"Anyway, I'll give you a ring tomorrow and let you know the result of the repeat X-ray," Mr. Anderson promised.

And he did. "You were wrong, doctor," he said over the phone. "There was a shadow there."

I began to say that I was sorry, but he just laughed. "The shadow is just the result of a pigmented mole I have on my back," he chorused. "I've had it since I was a baby."

(London Express Service)

Why you needn't fear that X-ray recall

by CEDRIC CARNE

KEITH ANDERSON entered my surgery as pale as a sheet and depressed. Why? Because he had visited a mass X-ray unit and had been called back to have a second X-ray. First though, he wanted to have a talk with me. He bit his right thumbnail, nervously. Poor Mr Anderson. He assumed he had been recalled because he had T.B. or, even worse, cancer of the lung.

But mass X-ray units use very small films and a certain percentage are not readable because of technical faults. The lung fields of fat people, particularly, are hard to read on a miniature X-ray.

This is why the repeat films are done on large plates, and then most queries are found to be false alarms.

"A hundred people were X-rayed at my firm," explained Mr Anderson, "but only three of us have been recalled for large films."

Economics

Why you might ask, don't the mass X-ray units take large plates for the first place? "The answer is purely economic. After all, millions are X-rayed by these combined units—and a small film costs pence while a large plate adds up to shillings."

"But supposing I have T.B.?" asked Mr Anderson, becoming even whiter than white. Just thinking about it...

It, and I repeated it, he had inactive T.B. all that would be necessary would be for him to have check-up X-rays from time to time—just to make sure his old T.B. scars remained firm and healed. Otherwise he would carry on a normal life.

"And what if it should be active T.B.?" asked Mr Anderson.

Fortunately, these days, antibiotics like streptomycin can be given to cure it. True, Mr Anderson would be off work for a time. And they might well suggest that his children should be vaccinated against T.B.

But in a matter of months he would be back at work, feeling wonderfully fit after the rest and treatment. And now that the T.B. shadows had become scars, he would just have to go for that occasional X-ray and perhaps be advised not to sunbathe too much. That's all.

"You see, having T.B. nowadays is less a disaster than a nuisance," I said.

Not sure

"How can the radiologist tell if a T.B. shadow on the lung is active or inactive?" asked Mr. Anderson, sonic colour now returning to his cheeks.

An inactive T.B. scar tends to have calcification (chalk), deposited in it, and this chalk is easily removable.

"The shadow is just the result of a pigmented mole I have on my back," he chorused. "I've had it since I was a baby."

(London Express Service)

the prince kept their children, Umberto, two, and Christopher, four.

To make certain that they are not snatched away from him, he keeps two armed guards.

In the idyllic setting of the hotel—swimming pool, green lawns sweeping down to the Mediterranean—they stick out like policemen at a christening.

When curious, uninformed guests inquire, they are told: "The guards are here for your security."

The prince is a diplomat too.

SEÑOR IBAN'S VICTORY

SENOR BALTASAR IBAN, a merry, twinkling millionaire who looks like Sancho Panza, is the owner of the Rancho Wellington, a luxurious motel near Marbella, and the Wellington Hotel in Madrid.

One of his guests, a Chauvinistic Frenchman, complained there was too much emphasis on Wellington (including paintings in the rooms) and not a reference to Napoleon.

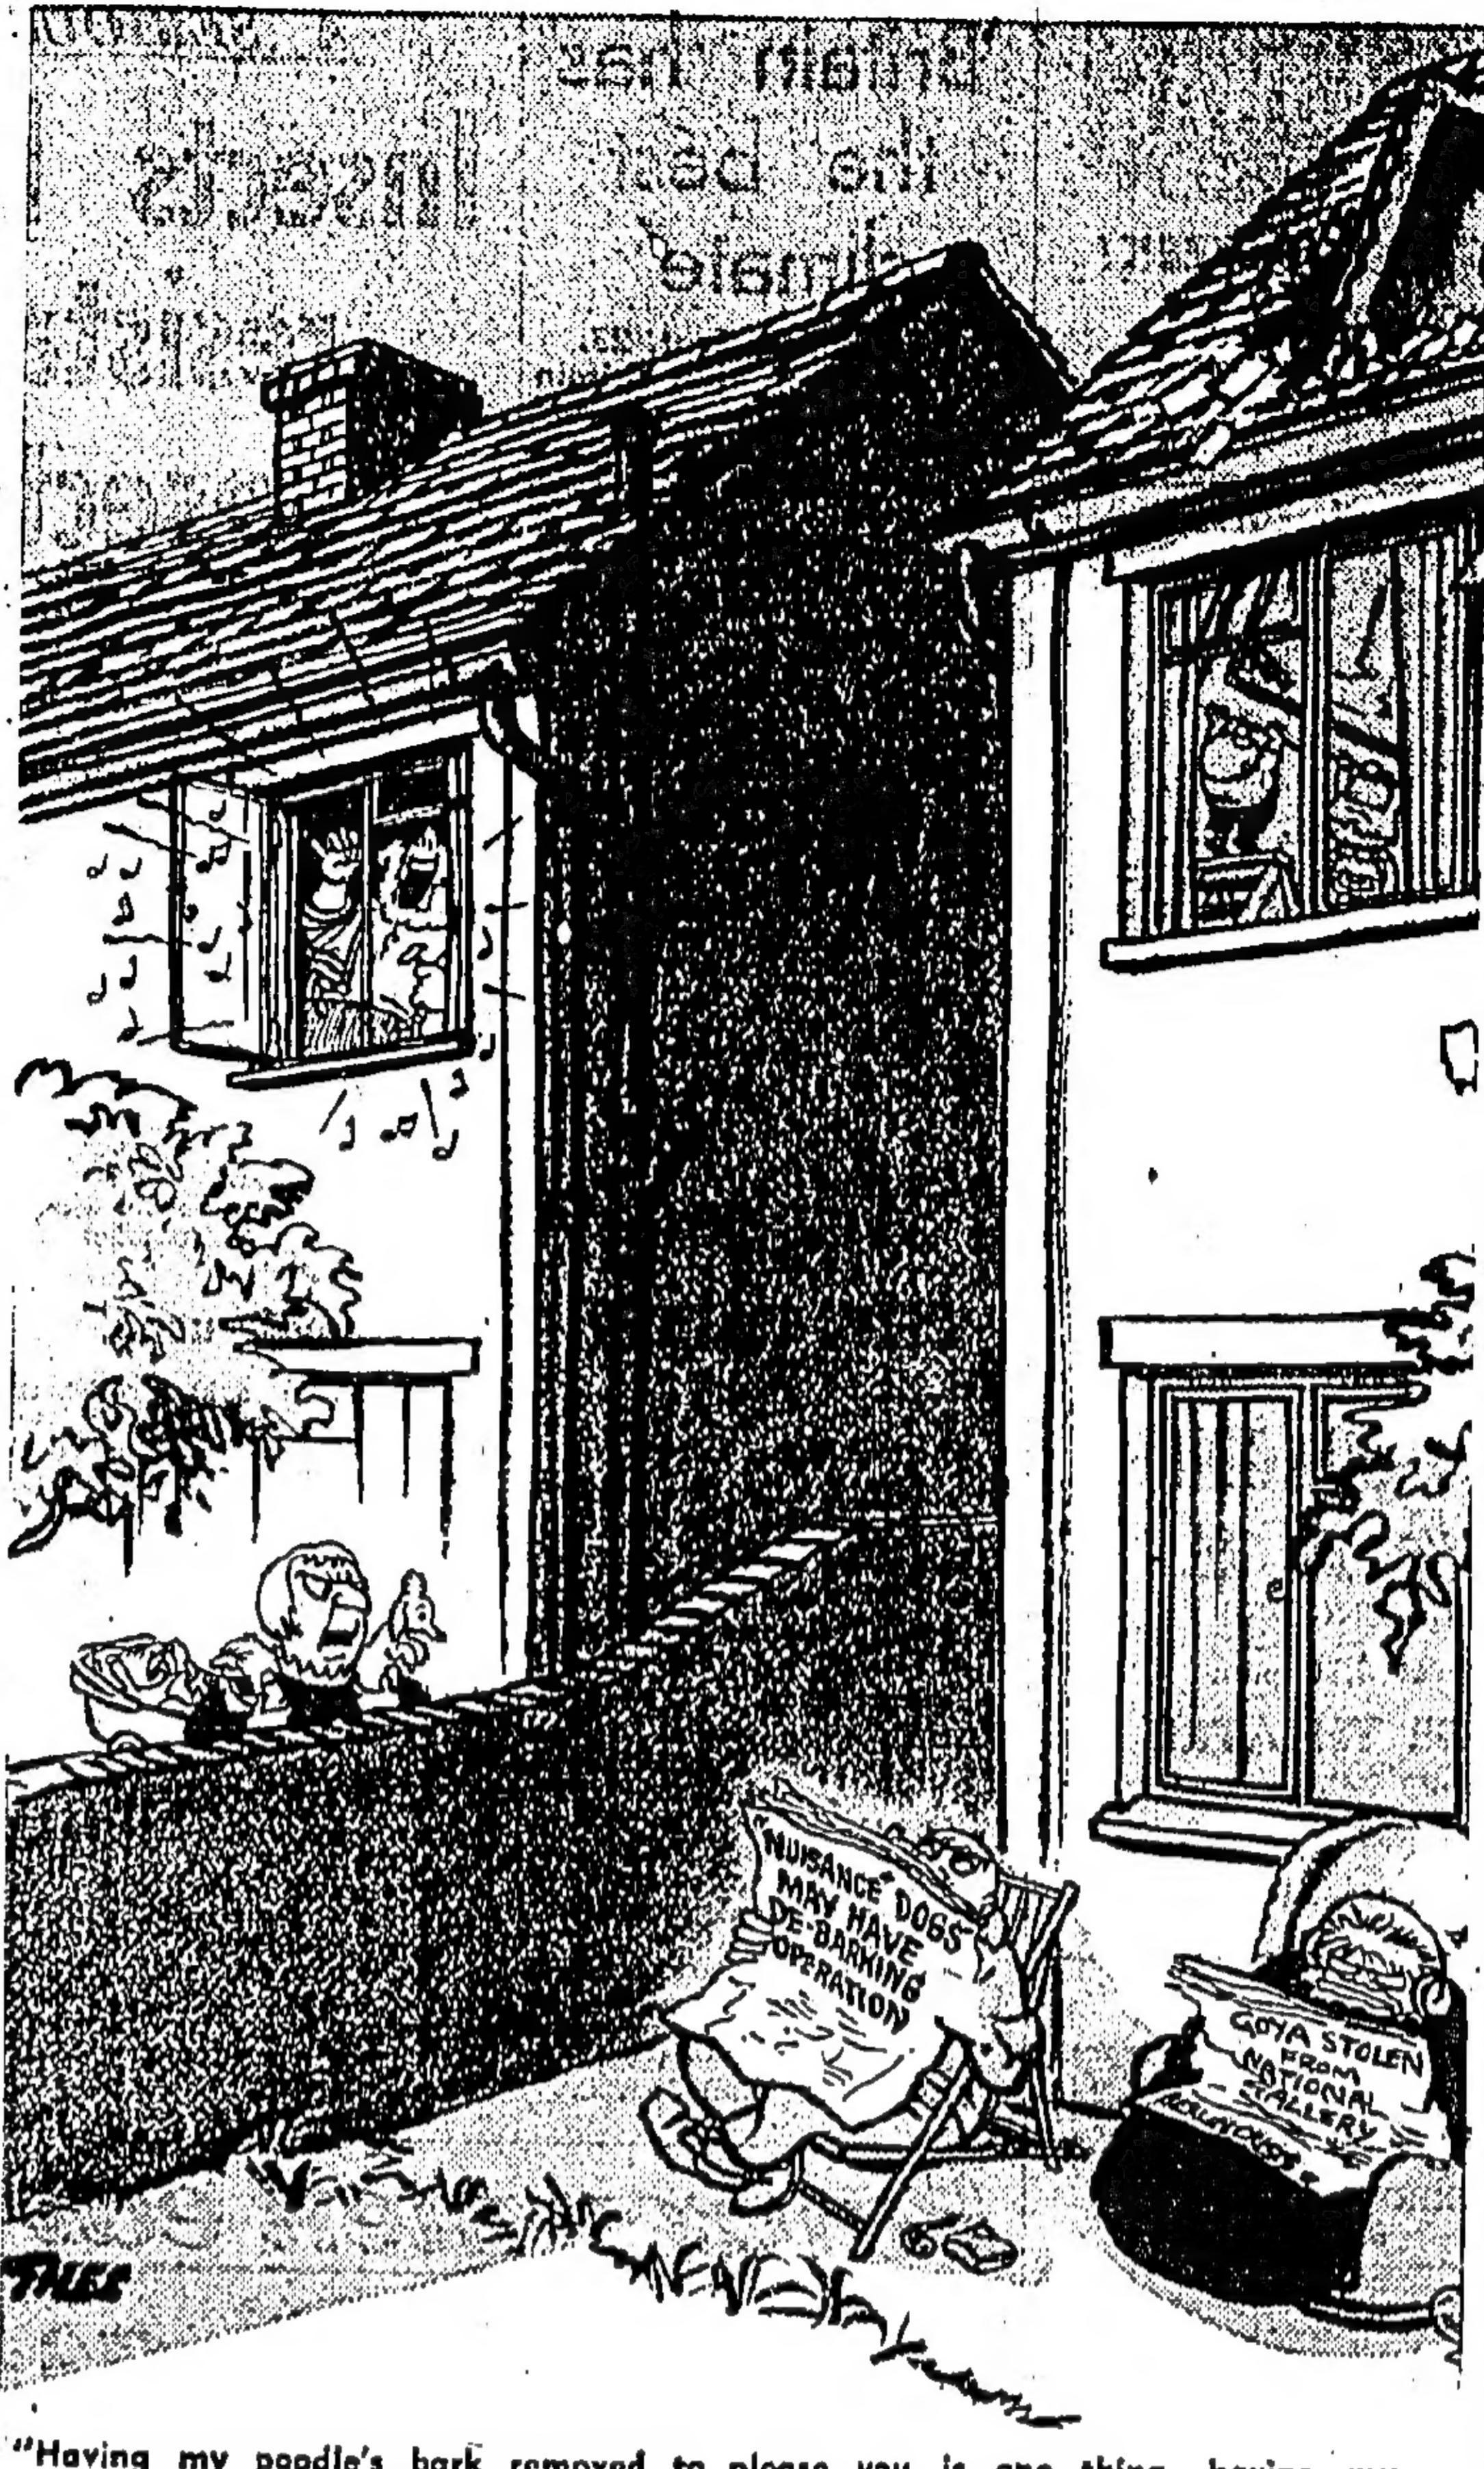

Next day he had a painting of Napoleon in his room. Napoleon at Waterloo.

I saw four bullfights in Spain. Twenty-four bulls fought and died. Twelve matadors risked death.

Eleven of the bulls were noble; six ignoble. Seven of the matadors brave and skilful. Five craven and clumsy. A fine average.

The corrida still flourishes despite tourists like the American who left the ring carrying a copy of Hemingway's "Death in the Afternoon" and saying: "I prefer the book. But definitely..."

(London Express Service)

"Having my poodle's bark removed to please you is one thing—having Harry's vocal organs removed is another."

(London Express Service)

The twenty days that shaped the destiny of De Gaulle

By George Malcolm Thomson

THE TRIUMPH OF INTEGRITY: a portrait of Charles de Gaulle. By Duncan Grinnell-Milne. Bodley Head. 30s.

HOW little is known of de Gaulle! There are, of course, the grand outlines of the man, the public performance visible to all.

But to what extent do these correspond with the essential human being, the individual? It is hard to say.

Even his memoirs, in their classical French garb, might almost have been written by a statue symbolising honour and patriotism.

HIS PART

Twenty-one years ago, de Gaulle assumed a part he became France.

It is easy—or it was—to make fun of such a lofty pose. Easy, but the joke was apt to recoil on those who made it.

President Roosevelt, who should have been the first to understand a great historic talent, was irritated beyond measure by de Gaulle. That dour, inflexible French soldier who thought he was Joan of Arc.

After all these years, the globo seems slightly and spottier, a lapse from generosity. In one who was, after all, a genuine and imaginative man.

But Roosevelt was not the only man who was made brigadier-general conducting a minor but successful engagement into a world statesman. It was quick promotion.

In Grinnell-Milne's admirably written biography we look for some shafts of new insight into the man on whom history played this extraordinary role. The narrative is skilfully woven out of material which is not particularly novel.

He had no social gifts and no political aims, no desire to appeal to the mob.

When years later, he came to the Champs Elysées on the day Paris was liberated he wrote: "For the attitudes and gestures that please the crowd I have neither the physique nor the inclination."

When he came to play the political game, he made it clear that he wanted power only on his own terms. Yet he is not a "fascist." Far from it.

He gave up power almost contemptuously. And, a few months before he resumed it, he said to one of his visitors: "I am a diminishing band—I am a band number."

On May 29, 1940, de Gaulle, in the black leather jacket of a tank officer was leading the 4th French armoured division in a brilliant attack on the German southern flank.

After all these years, the globo seems slightly and spottier, a lapse from generosity. In one who was, after all, a genuine and imaginative man.

De Gaulle's memoirs begin with the words: "All my life I have thought of France in a certain way." No reader of Grinnell-Milne will doubt what that way is.

"Both men are big, bold, and in their middle-40s, and unlike Rodgers and Hart or Van Heusen and Cahn—they can cope equally well with words or music."

"This is my first major effort," said Barnes. "I've written some pop tunes—you've never heard of them because they weren't popular. But together we seem to have hit on a formula—the tune just gushes out of us like water from a tap."

"Maybe it's something to do with my getting married. Before that all the songs I wrote were bad and searching for someone, but since I've found her—the name's Gene, by the way—I seem to have slipped into top gear."

It strikes me as odd that when women constitute the main pop-song audience it invariably takes a man to spin the romantic thread of a lyric.

But professional romantics always have a six-and-a-half-thousand-dollar answer ready.

"Of course women like the credit," they chorused. "They are the inspiration of what men write."

"And," added Mr. Barnes, "they buy what we write."

THE LYRICS

"The truth of writing for women is in the lyric," said Blane, "if the words really mean something, if they really live. Then it doesn't matter about the music—you've got a standard, a classic that'll go on for years."

Even song-writers have favourites—usually written by other song-writers. Mr. Horner plumps for "Laura" ("strictly for the music") and Mr. Blane for an obscure Rodgers and Hart number called "You're Neater" ("strictly for the lyrics").

This, I suggested, labelled the dyed-in-the-wool romantic anyway.

"Well," sighed B. S. W., eventually. "Women are the world's realists and then the romantics when it comes down to it. After all, it's the women who have the babies."

(London Express Service)

Two men with women always on their minds

By Patricia Lewis

THERE is nothing seasonal about a woman's discontent. Moments on cloud seven can be followed immediately and irrationally by tearful melancholia.

But unlike men—whose frustrations can be worked off in a game of football or a bit of mountaineering—women tend to find their therapy in a completely self-indulgent emotional upheaval.

And it is for this feminine weakness that song-writers exist.

"The entire song-writing market is geared to women—some as love stories," admitted the Oklahoman with the sun-tanned pate and jewelled tiepin.

He

WOMANSENSE THAT LUXURY LOOK

*— Very expensive
but oh so nice!*

For that rich feeling—a full length coat in pearlised leather. Can be worn swinging loose, or tied with its own belt.
If you have $1,260 handy, you can buy this from Lane, Crawford's. Expensive yes, but at least you look it!

FEW women can resist luxury. Sheer luxury in the form of silk-next-to-the-skin, the heady fragrance of rich perfume, the blissful confidence of diamonds, marble bathrooms, deep, soft carpets, low slinky cars—the filmstar's lot as one fondly imagines.

Well, coming down to earth a bit, suede and leather coats have always come rather under that heading for me.

And if one of these coats is the very thing you have set your heart on, you can buy one right in Hongkong here and now.

In varying lengths, full, three-quarter or short, and in soft pretty shades of magent, mink, sage and lovat, they can be found at several of the shops in the Colony—and very nice they are too.

Continuing the luxury theme but on a level more within the reach of most of us, practically nothing can beat a Cashmere jersey or cardigan for that rich feeling.

The new autumn ranges from all the big Scottish firms are now in the shops, and now is the time to buy them before the rush starts.

Although Cashmere feels fairly fragile it will wash and wash and rarely lose its shape or texture.

GOOD TIP

A VERY good tip passed on to me the other day concerning all woolies, is to brush them with a stiff wire or suede brush. This will remove all those tiny bubbles that always seem to form. Not only do they spoil the look of the woolie, but they also tend to damage the rest of the garment.

FOR AUTUMN

THE story of the sweater and skirt is a continuous one. Influenced by fashion trends, we can expect it now every year like a serial with a new chapter added each season.

It is a style that always tempts us to add "just one more" to our wardrobe.

With the mildest of autumns in Hongkong, a sweater and skirt is one of the easiest and most inexpensive ways of bridging the gap between summer and winter that lies ahead.

Nowadays manufacturers are tending to co-ordinate the ubiquitous jumper and skirt and they are rapidly emerging as a fashion story in their own right.

And not only manufacturers either. Some of our top designers are lending a hand in this transformation.

Whiteaway has designed a range of pure wool blouses—these of course are to be sold in the stores and separate from his couture. He uses a lot of printed wool, often with soft bow necklines, and his colours are intriguing blends of ochres and greens, blues and petunias or reds and browns.

The trend this year has swung mainly to skirts (usually flared or pleated) with matching or toning tops.

Patchwork

One of our biggest department stores has some very pretty fine whitebird skirts with the new flare cut. With the skirt you can also buy a checked blouse picking out the main colour, and to complete this outfit, if you wish, a little whipcord jacket to match the skirt.

The ones I saw were in pre-dominant colours of peacock blue and deer tobacco.

The jumper suit is another useful item in any wardrobe and there are some very pretty ones in the "Catalina" range.

Bright patchwork plaids with skirts of unpressed pleats or else a slim skirt and little jacket.

Curry

Colours range from the new curry and gold shades, through peacock and navy, to cheerful Kelly greens.

The firm of Koret, also from California, have produced an attractive collection of mix 'n match separates. Whiteaway's have a selection of them including long, slim pants in lavender and black, or coffee and black, each with a gold design. To wear with these are matching overblouses in brown or lavender with little tie belts.

A very sporty outfit but not elegant. The only trouble is that they are only suitable for long, slim elegant people and if you are a bit tubby like me, that's just what you'll look in them.

A sleek jumper suit with Ottoman knit overblouse and slim sheath skirt. A Catalina design available in Hongkong in black, Irish green and taupe. Price $185.00.

Again that rich feeling—a pure Cashmere cardigan by Pringle of Scotland. With three-quarter sleeves and button front, in colours like paradise blue, Bermuda pink, and costing $120.00.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Fairy Tale Adventure

—Knarf Meets Man Who Sold Jack The Beans—

By MAX TRELL

KNARF, the Shadow Boy with the Turned-Around Name, had made himself small. For shadows, unlike children, can make themselves any size they please.

Knarf made himself as small as thin as a toothpick. Then he glided over to the bookcase and squeezed himself inside the Fairy Tale Book.

Village market

No sooner was Knarf inside the Fairy Tale Book than he found himself in a market place of a small village. All around him there were people buying and selling vegetables and fruit and flowers.

"Buy my apples! Fresh and ripe!" cried another Woman.

"Roses! Rose! Red and white and pink roses! Buy my roses!" cried a third Woman.

Knarf walked through the crowd, wondering whether he should buy some of the delicious-looking fruit that he saw all around.

Another cry

And at that moment, he heard another cry.

"Bean seeds? Who will buy my bean seeds? Beautiful bean seeds?"

Knarf looked around. All he saw was a tall thin Man with sharp eyes. He held a paper bag in front of him in which he rattled a few dried seeds.

"Hello, you tall-Man," he called to Knarf. "Will you buy my bean seeds?"

"Thank you," said Knarf. "I don't need any."

Knarf turned to walk away but the Man held him by the arm.

"They'll grow big," he said. "Big, big, BIG!"

"How big is that?" asked Knarf.

They'll reach sky

"Plant my bean seeds," said the Man, "and they'll tend up stalks to reach the sky."

"But I don't want them," said Knarf. "Thank you."

"You're making a great mistake," said the Man. "You see that cloud up there?" The Man

The Man exchanged bean seeds for the Cow.

JACOBY on BRIDGE

ONE of the difficulties with learning defensive signals at bridge is that the play on an unnecessarily high card can mean many things.

West opens the jack of spades against the three no-trump contract and East plays his lowest spade—the deuce. In this instance the deuce play specifically tells West that East does not have one of the high spades.

Now South leads a club. West wins the trick with his club and East drops another

♦ CARD Sense ♦

Q—The bidding has been:

North East South West
1♥ Pass 3♦ Pass
4♦ Pass 4NT. Pass
5♥ Pass 7

You, South, hold:

42 ♠ Q 10 4 ♠ A Q 8 7 6 5 4 ♠ A

What do you do?

4—In duplicate you might just as well bid seven no-trump.

At worst you have the diamond finesse for your contract. In rubber bridge you can either bid the diamond or heart grand slam or elect for kings with a five no-trump bid if you feel conservatively.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding four diamonds, your partner has rebid to three hearts and has shown two aces after you bid four no-trump. What do you do in this case?

Answer Tomorrow

NORTH
▲ 75
▼ A 10 4
♦ 8 3
♣ Q J 10 9 7 4

WEST
▲ J 10 9 3
▼ K 6 2
♦ Q 10 4 4
♣ J 9 7

EAST
▲ 8 4 2
▼ Q 9 8 5
♦ 7 6 3 2
♣ 6 5 3

SOUTH (D)
▲ A K Q 6
▼ J 7 3
♦ A K 5 2
♣ 5 5

East and West vulnerable
South West North East
1NT. Pass 2NT. Pass
3NT. Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead—4 J

deuce. This deuce conveys another message. It tells West that East holds either three clubs or one club. With one club in the suit West must play it. With two clubs East would have played the higher one. In this case the high card play could not be read as showing strength because the club suit clearly belongs to dummy.

Aisted by these two deuce plays West can and should come up with the killing defense. He must play the king of hearts. This may cost him a trick if South holds the queen, but West wants to beat the contract, not just save an over-trick.

After the king of hearts play South has only one way to go. That way is down.

He can win with the ace or he can win with the king. If he can stand both the king and queen, but he is never going to be able to bring in dummy's club suit.

CANCRIS (June 22-July 21):

A series of meetings after office hours will force you to cut down on your social activities.

LEO (July 22-August 21):

Avoid signing an important

LADY LUCK YOUR CHINA MAIL HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26

ACQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): Don't hesitate to be frank if asked for your reasons for refusing a loan you suspect would never be repaid.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): Postponing a decision will not make it any easier, and you might as well get down to making up your mind.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Let your conscience be your guide when faced with a choice between self-interest and consideration for another.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your taste for beautiful surroundings is liable to involve you in expenditures you can ill afford.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Don't abuse a relative's generous mood by asking for too many favours at once.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 20): With the help of your partner you will succeed in mastering a rather intricate household problem.

CANCER (June 22-July 21):

A series of meetings after office hours will force you to cut down on your social activities.

YOUR LUCKY COLOUR:

If today is your birthday, look out for PALE BLUE. It ought to bring you luck.

LONG LINE 'U'

THE NEW BRA

BY

Silhouette

shapes you here

controls you here

WAFFLED THIN PRE-SHAPING

The bra shapes the bust instead of the bust shaping the bra.

CUPS KEEP THEIR SHAPE

Embossed Del-Nylon shoulder straps, filled with polyfill, won't cut or pull. Easily adjusted; no loops made to pull out.

NEW COMFORT ACROSS THE SHOULDERS

Tubular Del-Nylon shoulder straps, filled with polyfill, won't cut or pull. Easily adjusted; no loops made to pull out.

SMOOTH FLAT DIAPHRAGM

Deep diaphragm section smooths away unwanted inches, giving a slim, long-line fit to your bust.

FIT IS EASILY AT SHIRES

Made to sizes from 32B to 38D. Long Line 'U' is also available without pre-shaping but with straps. It's made of Del-Nylon. Feels wonderfully soft, stays flat.

LONG LINE 'U'

Made to sizes from 32A to 38E. Long Line 'U' is also available without pre-shaping but with straps. It's made of Del-Nylon. Feels wonderfully soft, stays flat.

32A-38E cup

WORLD SOCCER NEWS

This month's spotlight on England's and Scotland's World Cup matches

By DEREK JOHN

This month the World Cup spotlight fixes firmly upon England and Scotland, who figure in the only two European qualifying matches to be played during September and who are the only British countries who can still qualify for the final stages in Chile next May and June.

What are their chances of success? Scotland face the more critical task in Group Eight where Czechoslovakia are formidable rivals. But England, more comfortably placed in Group Six, cannot afford to take qualification for granted.

Scotland's moment of truth will come at Hampden Park, Glasgow, today when they must beat Czechoslovakia to stand a chance of qualifying. The Czechs won the first leg 4-0, while Scotland have beaten Eric at home and away.

At present, Scotland have four points from three matches; the Czechs two points from one match. In October, the Czechs play the Republic of Ireland at home and away to complete their qualifying programme.

A formality

The Czechs will surely win at least one of these matches; from July, 1960, they went twelve months without defeat in six home internationals. So even victory today will guarantee Scotland a place in Chile. They might still have to take part in a play-off match.

England resume their Cup campaign on September 28 against Luxembourg at Highbury and since they were the first leg 0-0 this can reasonably be regarded as a formality.

Here England are fortunate to have a chance to make any team experiment they wish to before the key match against Portugal at Wembley on October 25. In the first leg, they snatched a 1-1 draw in Lisbon heatmap.

Since then, Jimmy Greaves, Gerry Hitchens and Joe Baker have turned to Iberian luxury in July and there is no certainty that England will be able to field their best eleven men for the job.

And it's worth noting that Portugal lost only 2-1 on their last visit to England, in 1958, and that the present team, packed with members of European-Cup winning Benfica, is considerably stronger.

At the moment, England are favourites to win through to Chile. But no progress is likely to end. One way that is likely to hamper England is a lack of outstanding reserves.

Not enough fights

Lamperti breaks off with manager

Paris, Sept. 25.

France's Gracieux Lamperti, the European featherweight boxing champion who is scheduled to fight in Manila on November 4, has broken with his manager Henri Barba, it was learned here today.

Lamperti accused his manager of not giving him enough fights and the 28-year-old champion is now looking for a manager who will handle his financial interests and give him a full boxing programme before he retires within the next two years.

The rift between Lamperti and Barba widened after the champion took a six-round thrashing from the brilliant Paris-based Nigerian Ratu King in their tenth bout here last week.

The referee stopped the fight in the sixth round.

Lamperti's immediate programme, as drawn up by Barba, was a non-title bout against Murio Vecchietti, Italy's former European lightweight champion at Rome on October 20, and against an opponent yet to be named in Manila on November 4.

Lamperti will then defend his title against Italy's former European champion Sergio Caprari at Rome.—AFP.

UK soccer results

London, Sept. 25.

Results of British soccer matches tonight were:

ENGLISH LEAGUE*Division III

Coventry	2	Brentford	0
Peterborough	0	Shrewsbury	1
Port Vale	1	No 1 County	2
Queens Park	0	Hilford	2

Division IV

Aber. Stanley	2	Barrow	0
Chesterfield	2	Worthington	1
Hartlepool	0	Crowe	1
Ilkeston	1	Walsall	0
Stockport	1	Millwall	0
Tranmere	2	Wrexham	0

FOOTBALL LEAGUE CUP*First round replays

Huddersfield	2	Carlisle	0
Torquay	0	Bournemouth	0
Bradford United	4	Fulham	0
Sunderland	2	Bolton	1
Swindon	2	Dartmouth C	0

SCOTTISH LEAGUE 'B'*First round

Brechin	3	Hamilton Acad	0
(Brought forward from Sept. 27)

GLASGOW CUP*First round

Celtic	4	Queen Of South	1
Third Lanark	1	Clyde	1

ULSTER CUP

Linfield	3	Portadown	3
(Reuter)

THE GAMBOLES

4-2-4 formation out-of-date?

Is the 4-2-4 formation adopted last season by England out-of-date? Last year Benfica discarded it as old-fashioned and turned to a predominantly attacking game. They had their best season ever.

Now even mighty Brazil, hot favourites for the World Cup, are foreclosing this formation and giving priority to attack with five or even six forwards up.

New team manager Alfons Moreira is behind this dramatic big-gambling change. And whatever the result, one can hardly admire his courage in changing the ways of the team that won the World Cup in 1958 and finished runners-up in 1960.

The new Brazilian approach will be watched with interest and like a new Dior creation, it may well have great impact on world soccer fashion.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet Union is mobilising her soccer forces.

The Russians announce that they have the world's greatest army of registered footballers—more than 1,000,000 of them.

★ ★ ★

World star

France were surprisingly placed third in the 1958 World Cup and now optimistic French fans confidently talk of even greater success in Chile. Much of their optimism stems from their faith in the genius of 31-year-old Raymond Kopa, originally an outside-right, now famed for his prowess at centre-forward.

Kopa, son of a Polish miner, was one of the giants of the World Cup in Sweden. He is an instinctive, natural ball player with the elusiveness of a Stanley Matthews and the defence-splitting skill of an Alex James.

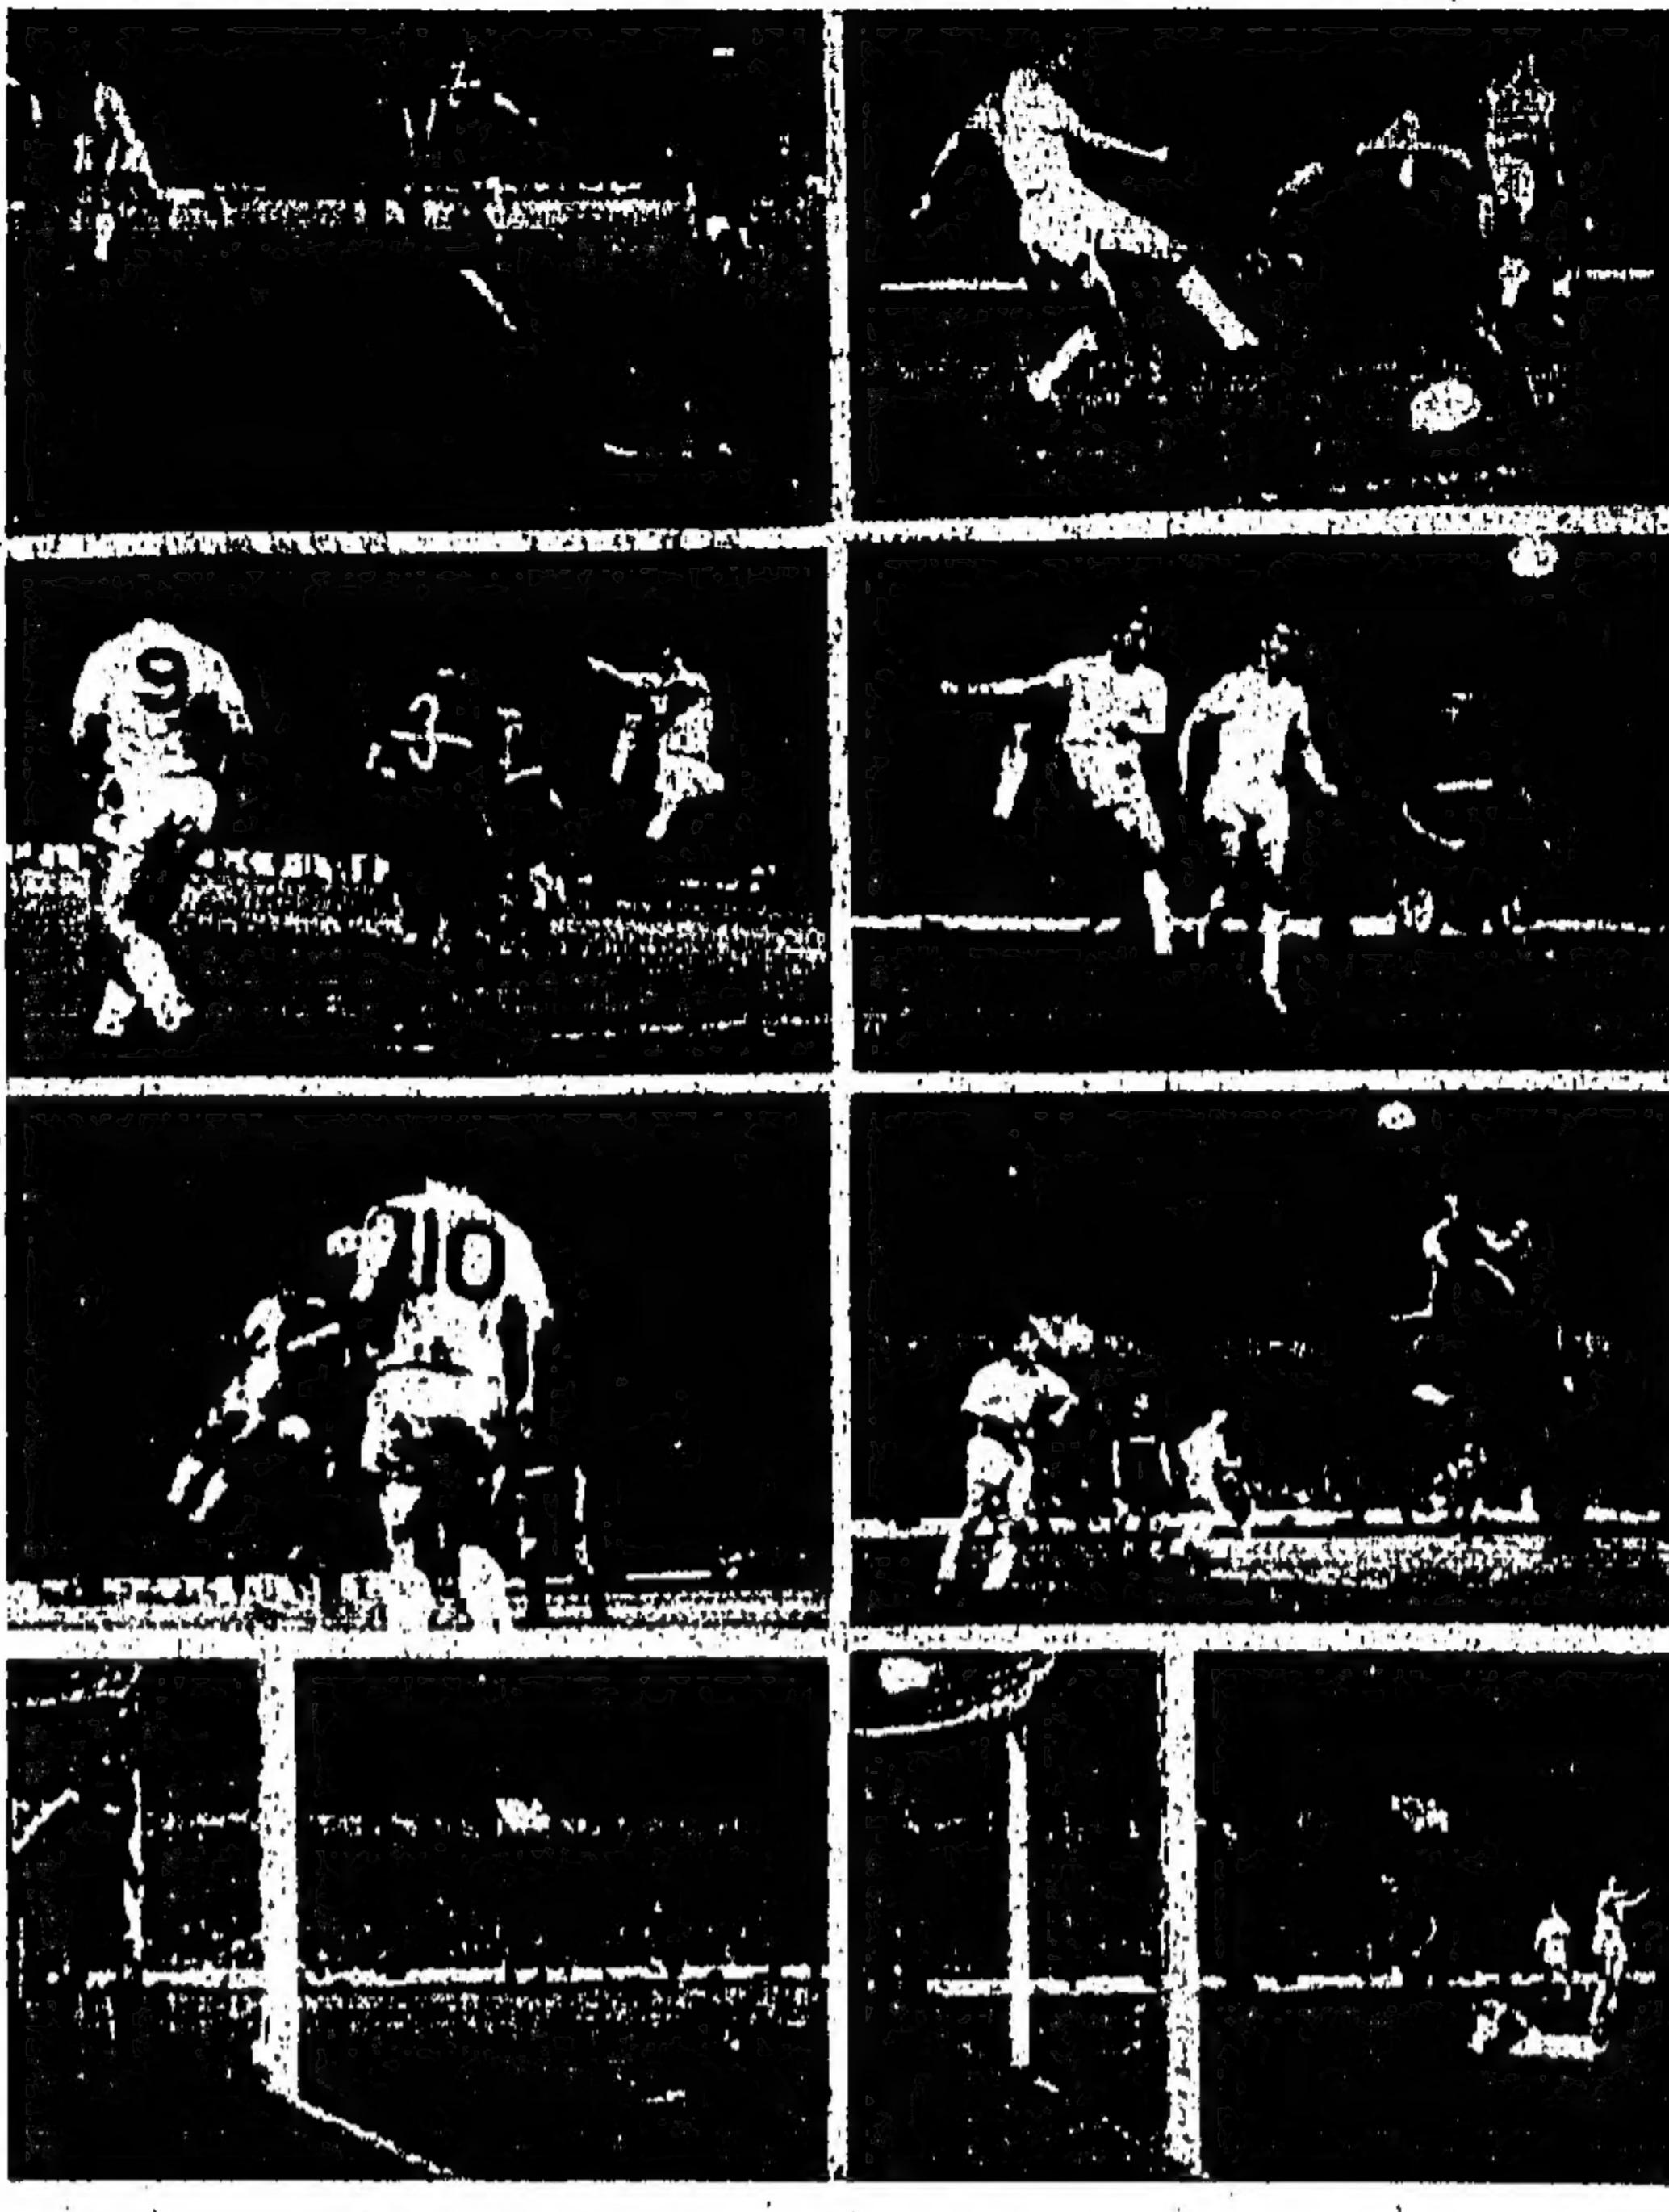

Two years ago, Kopa began hitting the headlines and went as a right-winger to Real Madrid. In the shadow of Alfredo Di Stefano he was denied the chance of playing in the true and favourite position—centre-forward.

In 1958, Kopa played for the Rest of Europe team that beat Britain and two years ago he returned to Rethes, eventually becoming the captain.

With his lively humour, easy ability to mix and his shrewd business brain, Kopa might be likened in some ways to Danny Blanchflower of Ireland and Spurs.

Certainly he is valued as highly in his own country, where the predominant fear at present is that he might be lost again to a big-spending overseas club.

Spurs' eight-goal spree

£4,000-a-year golfer—that's BERNARD HUNT

THE MOMENTS WHEN I HATE IT

By HARRY CARPENTER

I don't care if you play golf or not. It's easy to imagine taking a swipe at a ball, making a mess of the shot, winding up in all sorts of rough, and carding a swine of a six, or even worse. It happens to professional golfers, more often than we hear about.

When it does, a professional can kiss goodbye to a first prize of, maybe, £1,000. So he doesn't change his car this year, or the house doesn't get painted, or perhaps his son doesn't get quite the education that was planned for him.

Just how bad is the tension of playing golf for money, when every additional stroke means a slice off your income?

Where does golf-for-money clubs named after you. This can mean quite a bit of money. But it hasn't happened to me yet."

Such advantages can come from a spectacular display in international clashes like the Ryder Cup, which carry no cash gains, but mean a lot in prestige.

Next month, at Lytham, Hunt will make his third Ryder Cup appearance. He forecasts: "If the weather is bad and the grass long, we may be in trouble. Given good weather, though, we'll do well."

Still, he's got to be a golfer prof. Hunt talks quickly about a two-year spell from 1955 to 1957 when nothing went right, and he almost threw up temptation for coaching.

Only time

Amazingly, his win in the Martini tournament in May was his first major prize for three years. His steady cash accumulation has come through deep concentration in every round, picking up the prizes in small tournaments. He failed miserably—his own estimation—in the Open. But that was the only time this season he wasn't in the money.

Thanks to that application, Hunt has developed what he believes to be a swing that will stand up to competition pressure, appalling weather or any of the natural hazards a golfer must face.

New swing

"A few years ago," he says, "I realised that Australia's Peter Thomson got his consistently good results from the golf pro. It's a helluva hard life. Mind you, my father was a golf pro and I never wanted to do anything else. I cut my teeth on a golf ball."

Like that glorious pitch to the 10th at Wentworth in June. He made a four to win the Dakota tournament.

"Two bad woods left me 50 yards short of the green. I pitched up three or four yards past the hole. The putt went down."

Reward: £1,000.

I still think it's a tough way to earn your living. I like my 'cere to come easier.

Surprise winner

Milan, Sept. 25. Fausto Cordero, surprisingly won the men's singles title of the Italian Tennis Championships when he upset Nicolo Pichiarotti, 6-2, 6-0, 6-7, 9-7.

Pichiarotti was leading 4-0, 7-5, 6-0 when both light stopped yesterday's play.—AFP.

EFU, FIFA MEETINGS

European Cup final scheduled for May in Amsterdam

London, Sept. 25. The next European Football Cup final will be played in Amsterdam, the Executive Committee of the European Football Union decided here today.

The EFU meeting was held in conjunction with the Congress of the International Football Federation (FIFA) and the EFU, which began here towards the end of the week. FIFA also held an Executive Committee meeting today. A total of 150 delegates representing more than 80 countries are in London for the Congress.

The secretary of the EFU, H. Baugier (Switzerland), said after today's Committee Meeting that the exact date of the European Cup final had not been confirmed, but that the match would take place early next May.

The committee also decided to organise new courses for trainers and coaches next year, although it did not decide when or where the courses would be held.

The EFU meeting was presided by Denmark's Ebby Schwartz.

FIFA meeting

The secretary of the Executive Committee of FIFA, Dr. Kaser (Switzerland), refused to reveal any of the decisions taken at the Federation's meeting today.

He said no decisions would be made public until the meeting ends tomorrow.

In the absence of a FIFA president following the recent death of Arthur Drewry (England), the meeting was presided by Mr. Thomsen (Switzerland).—AFP.

European Bridge Championship results

Brussels, Sept. 25. Belgium, Britain and Denmark were tied in first place at the end of the second round of the open series in the European Bridge Championship.

Belgium got there the hard way with wins in both the first and second rounds for the maximum of 12 victory points, while Denmark had a bye in the first round and Britain, in the second, both drawing the maximum.

WOMEN'S EVENT

In the women's second round, the United Arab Republic and Sweden won their matches to take the lead with maximum scores of 12 points. Ireland with a bye, was runner-up with 11 points.

Men's second round

Today's results were:

SENSATIONS
OF SPORTGOLF'S GRAND SLAM WAS 'IMPOSSIBLE'*But America's Bobby Jones laid the bogy!

By FRANK WRIGHT

In all the history of sport there has never been a month quite like June, 1930.

At Lord's, a fellow called Don Bradman was making his first Test appearance there with 254 runs out of Australia's first innings Test total of 729 for six declared. In New York, the German Max Schmeling was winning the world heavyweight title on a sensational disqualification.

At Wimbledon, 38-year-old Big Bill Tilden was making a fantastic come-back, while Helen Wills Moody was moving majestically towards her fourth successive singles crown. On Lake Windermere, Sir Henry Segrave was breaking the world water speed record held by American Gar Wood.

Already a legend

Yet in that glorious month of June, one man commanded the sporting stage like a colossus — a chunky, soft-spoken American lawyer from Atlanta, Georgia, by the name of Robert Tyre Jones.

Bobby Jones, a chubby-cheeked young man with smooth hair and inevitable plus fours, was already a legendary figure. At 28, he had won the U.S. Open Championship three times, the British Open twice, the American Amateur four times.

Now he had begun his assault on the Everest of the golfing world, with a bid to achieve what Americans had fancifully called "The Impregnable Quadrilateral", better known today as the Grand Slam.

It involved winning the British Open and Amateur Championships and the U.S. Open and Amateur in the same year — a feat reasonably regarded as beyond human prowess. One thing seemed certain: if any man could triumph, it would be Bobby Jones.

Spectators hit

After leading his country to 10-2 victory in the Walker Cup, Jones returned in May to the home of golf at St Andrews where, in 1921, as an impetuous 19-year-old, he had torn up his card in the third round of the Open and declared that he never wanted to see the course again.

Here Jones faced the first side of the Impregnable Quadrilateral — the British Amateur which he had yet to win for the first time. It was to prove the most important and drama-packed tournament of his life.

The Wednesday brought the eagerly-awaited meeting of Jones, U.S. Open Champion, and Cyril Tolley, defending British Amateur champion. Here came sensations galore as ste-

Australia's terms for England Rugby tourists

Sydney, Sept. 25. The Australian Rugby League Board of Control decided unanimously today not to vary the terms for a visit to Australia by England next year.

These are 50 per cent of the gross gates.

The board announced its decision with "deep regret."

It has not received any suggestion from England for a shorter tour, nor considered such a plan, the announcement stated.—China Mail Special.

Sports DiaryTODAY
DOWNS
Colony Ladies' matches at PRC, KGDC, HKFC, KEC, 5.10 p.m.
TENNIS
Colony Open and Hard Court championships at Chinese Recreation Club, 5.30 p.m.; Lite championship matches, 6.00 p.m.HOCKEY
2nd Division: Macensia "B" v Army "C" 4.45 p.m.; IHC v MCC, 5.45 p.m.; Nav Bharat "A" v Macensia "B", 6.15 p.m.; Nav Bharat "B" v George V KGK "C" (KGK), 4.30 p.m.
TRINITY

Men's Colonial Tennis Court championships at Chinese Recreation Club, 6.30 p.m.; Lite Tournament, 8.30 p.m.

Policemen had to rescue him from the surging fans...

times in my two strokes and he held for a birdie 4.

No wonder the triple champion was nervous when he finally came to Merion, Philadelphia, for the U.S. Amateur last Sunday.

Jones ended the last round with a brilliant burst of 4-4-4 for 201 and now waited two hours for his closest rivals to finish. But he needn't have worried. Compton blew up with a heart-breaking 82 and American Leo Diegel failed at the 10th and finished second on 295 with Macdonald Smith.

Two sides of the Impregnable Quadrilateral were achieved.

After a superb third round, Jones led with 212, but as at Hoylake Macdonald Smith, seven strokes behind, made a dramatic last-round bid. He gained six strokes in 13 holes and at the 18th needed an eagle 2 to tie, but took a par 4.

Lucky to live

So Jones had won his fourth U.S. Open, and his final stroke here was an unforgettable 40 ft uphill putt which plumped in the eighteenth hole.

The champion was lucky to be alive for the U.S. Amateur which followed months later.

One day, lightning struck the fairway less than 40 yards from where he stood and he felt a single through his spikes. Another bolt struck just as close as he ran for the clubhouse.

At the club, lightning hit the chimney stack and bricks fell all around him, ripping his shirt off the waist end, scratching his shoulder. A direct hit on the head would have killed him.

A few weeks later, a runaway car tore down a hill and mounted the curb. Only a warning shout by a pedestrian saved Jones from being crushed against a wall. With seconds to spare, he jumped to safety.

(All rights reserved)

Fun was gone

But then Jones was the complete amateur. He played for the joy of the game and now all the fun seemed to have been lost. In that year of the Grand Slam, "go" had become a grimmer business than ever before. He was tired of the constant tournament pressure and nerve-racking suspense.

So Robert Tyre Jones Jun., lawyer, gentleman and sportsman, went out in a blaze of glory after hitting the golfing heavens as no other man has done before or since.

Caldwell defends title on Oct. 31

By GEORGE WHITING

Promoter Jack Solomons, shy violet of the boxing trade, has confessed — after a fortnight of cautious hedging — that Belfast's John Caldwell is to defend his European-type world bantamweight title against ex-champion Alphonse Hallimi, of France, at Wembley Pool on October 31.

Meanwhile, Dublin-born and self-managed Mick Leahy will be making history if he takes those British and Empire welterweight titles off southpaw Curvis.

Irishmen, naturalised or otherwise, are not normally encouraged to interfere in our private championship fights. Nor are boxers who deny themselves the privilege of paying out 25 per cent, to manager!

Run-of-mill

Ex-plumber Caldwell, it will be recalled, hammered out his world championship with a spindly show of aggression against innkeeper Hallimi here last May, when the hitherto immaculate Frenchman finished with a broken left eye and an urgent desire to hold after being upended in the last round.

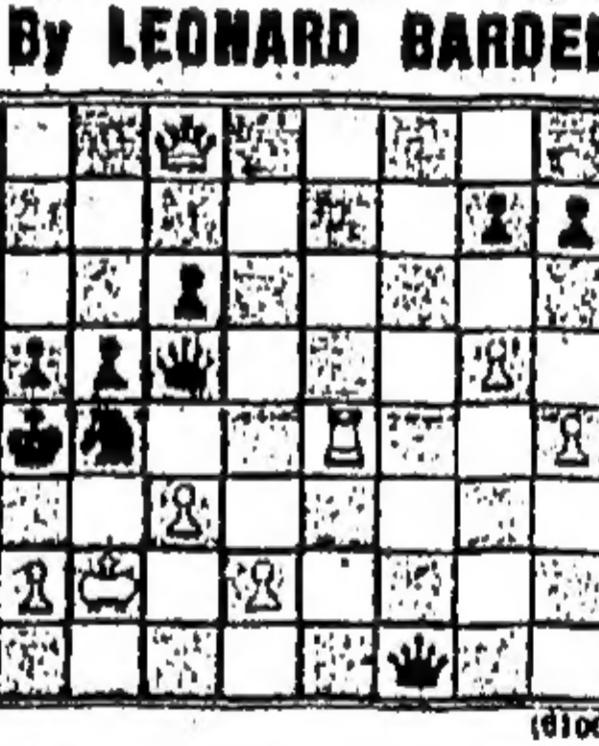

Thirty minutes later, winner and loser were sharing a shower and assuring each other of further calculated savagery providing the price was right. That fellow state of affairs has now arrived—the only difference being that the lion's portion this time goes to Caldwell.

Rate-for-the-job could work out not far short of £10,000 — which even a plumber would admit is not unreasonable.

Making history

Since attaining world title eminence, beetle-browed Caldwell has possibly jeopardised his "cold-eyed killer" label in run-of-the-mill performances against a Frenchman and a Spaniard in Wales.

Handsome Hallimi, similarly desiring a "warm-up" in France, has been told by promoter Solomons not to import his good looks any later than September 30.

CHESS
By LEONARD BARDEEN

Arthur Bisguier of New York programmes computers when he is not playing chess. In this position (Black to move), he programmed a forced win. Can you see how?

London Express Service.

Soccer Amateur 100%

KNOX

SCREENS

FOR MOVIES AND SLIDES

KNOX has the RIGHT screen ... in the RIGHT size ... for the BEST results

MILDRW-RESISTANT, GLASS-BEADED, SEAMLESS
Table and Tripod Models
In all standard sizes.

ILFORD FILM

SWISSAIR CONVAIR JETS, NOW SERVING HONG KONG*The Fastest Film in the World!
ILFORD FILM

PICTORIAL PARADE

RIGHT: Sir Michael Turner seen cutting a ribbon to formally open the Hongkong Softball Association's new grounds at Mission-road, Kowloon.

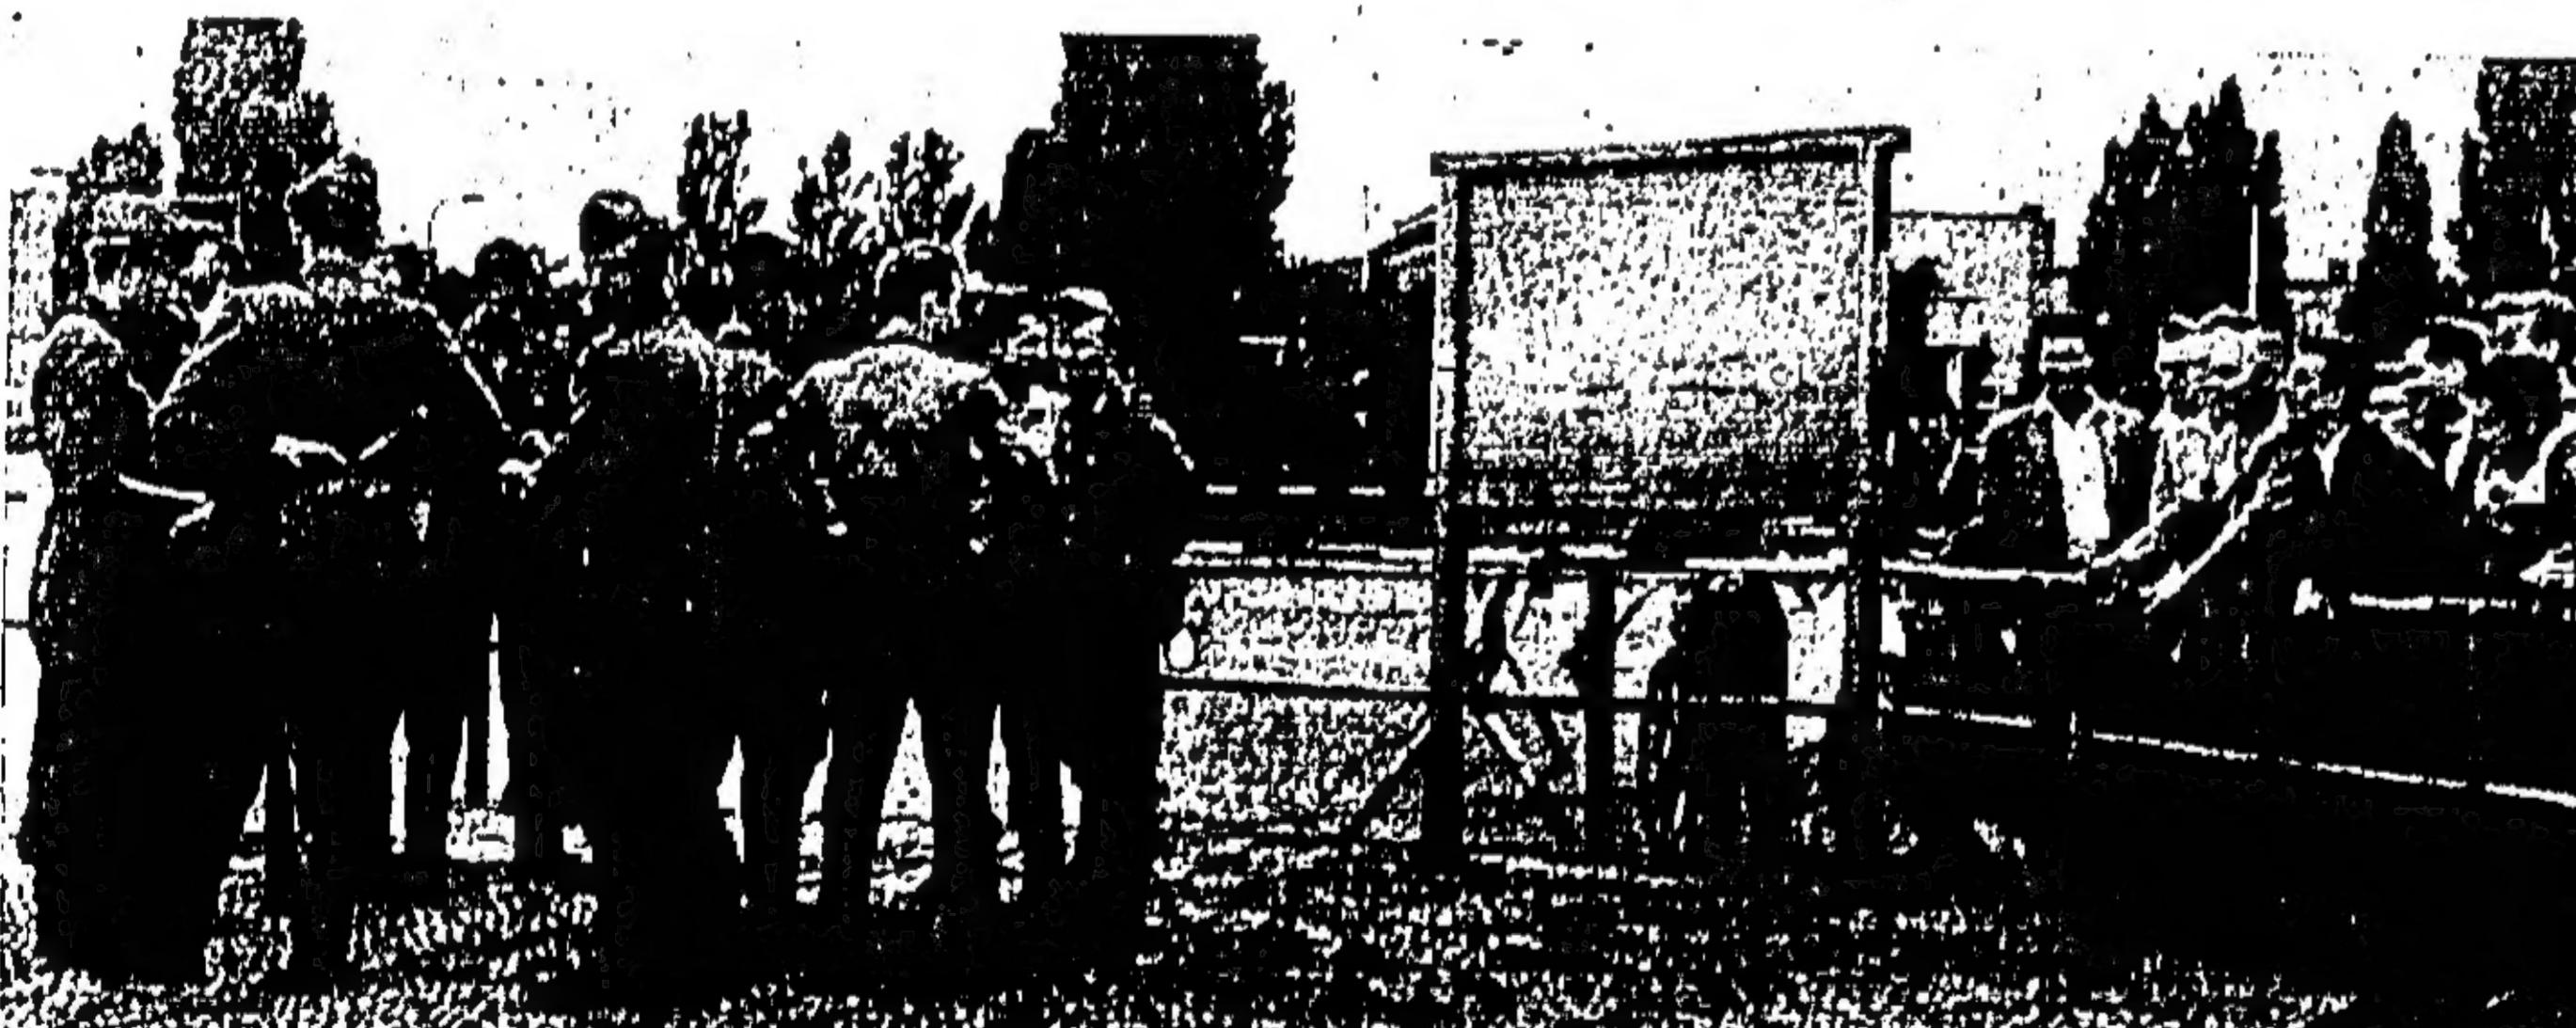

BELOW: The new Vicar of St Andrew's Church, Rev J. R. S. Michell, seen with his family on arrival by the mv Asia on Sunday.

ABOVE: Maintaining an ancient Chinese tradition, two children play with gaily-coloured paper lanterns during the Mid-Autumn Festival on Sunday.

LEFT: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. F. Cousins (centre) chatting with Mr. Buzz Hunt (left) and Mr. Terry Cleaver at their wedding reception held at the Foreign Correspondents Club. They were married at the Registry last Thursday.

ABOVE: Separated by a distance of two metres only, soldiers of the Soviet zone People's Army stand opposite West Berliners. Between them is the barbed wire fence which has meanwhile been replaced by concrete walls.

RIGHT: Professor Daniel Logach of the Sorbonne speaking on the connection between mental illness and welfare at an international meeting in Geneva.

Printed and published by
Treasurer, Government Newsagent,
PEARCE for and on behalf of
South China Morning Post
Limited at 1-3 Wyndham
Street, City of Victoria in the Colony of Hongkong.

Centre for route of the Northern Lights

Anchorage, by the Chugach mountains, developed from a provincial airfield into a big international air station.

Colony factories receive orders for stockings

Through it today sweep, 10 times a week, huge jet aircraft flying the route of the Northern Lights—2,400 miles across the broad Pacific and the Arctic wastes, and over populous European countries.

In the airport lounge, the only United States stop on the polar route linking three continents—Europe, America and Asia—mingle the people of many nations as they wait for their aircraft to be serviced and refuelled.

Languages

Arrivals and departures are always announced nowadays in four languages—English, French, German and Japanese—for the benefit of smartly dressed Europeans, kimono-clad or business-suited Japanese, and East Indians in turbans who mingle in the lounge, halls and dining room with native Eskimos from remote coastal regions wearing fur parkas and mukluks (caribou hide footwear).

Two parts of the airport always attended passengers.

One is the airport dining room where, owing to time differences, they may be eating the second breakfast, or the second dinner, of the journey. Here, the Alaskan chef declares, "American ham 'n' eggs" is a universal favourite."

The other is the International Gift Shop, where authentic Alaskan, Eskimo and Indian handicrafts and souvenirs are on sale.

"We sell hundreds of picture postcards," say the owners, who say that walrus ivory figurines, handcarved by Eskimos, are popular with all the travellers, while the Japanese, for example, have a special liking for gold-nugget jewellery and Alaskan red fox pelts.

The shop exchanges foreign currencies for its customers, whether Hongkong dollars, Japanese yen, Dutch guilders, or Australian pounds.

Many of the North Polar route travellers stop at Alaska for sightseeing. Popular is a 100-mile round-trip motor tour to prehistoric Portage Glacier.

A cocktail party was held to mark the occasion.

Ice-cream

The road runs parallel to the scenic Turnagain Arm, and winds beneath startling peaks. The guest book at Portage Lodge records travellers from countries from Pakistan to

For.

And at the site of the blue-tinted glacier, in spite of the ice-conditioned air, the favourite snack of foreigners is—ice-cream.

Cargo carried by the International airline over the Polar route has included Dutch art treasures, Swedish eggs and strawberries. Electronic and optical equipment from Japan go east, while French cognac and perfume go west.

Since inauguration of the route, four and one-half years ago, thousands of travellers have "pole-vaulted", including 700 Alaskans who, during 1960, travelled to Europe.

Olympic teams, big-game hunters, executives, merchants and nobility have journeyed across Alaska and stopped off at Anchorage.

Distinguished passengers have included Prince Axel of Denmark, Prince and Princess Takemoto of Japan, the West German Chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, and the great Arctic pilot, Hjalmar Hansen-Larsen of Norway, who, in 1926, accompanied Roald Amundsen in the first Polar flight, by dirigible, from Europe to America.

North Polar travellers this year are averaging 12,000 a month. And, Mr. "Tony" Schwamm, the airport manager, observed recently: "We are only just beginning on this international traffic. Several more international air carriers have expressed the desire to utilize the facilities here".

Alaskans have a slogan today for Anchorage International airport. It is, they say, "the largest airport, of the largest city, of the largest state of the United States"—China Mail Special.

dear sir

Rehabilitation

We would be obliged if you would allow us to bring to the notice of the people of Hongkong, that during the week of September 25-30 we are endeavouring to put before the public the great need of a fully equipped Medical and Rehabilitation Rehabilitation Centre and to explain as fully as possible what such a Centre comprises.

The project is to be carried out by the Hongkong Society for Rehabilitation and for the past two years, along with other work, this has been its ultimate goal. A grant given to us by Government from the United States of America of HK$512,000 from World Refugee Year has brought this dream very much nearer reality and in spite of setbacks, with a little help from the public we may be able to see our dream realised. The following is for the information of the public and we would appreciate it if it could find a place in your columns.

1. September 28—Mr Kenneth Fung Ping-fan will speak over Radio Hongkong at 6.10 pm and Commercial Radio at 9 pm.

2. In addition to this we are staging an Exhibition in the window of the Gas Company in Gloucester Arcade for the whole week (September 25-30).

3. A booklet with a pictorial description of our work will be ready for distribution by September 26.

4. We hope also to prepare stickers for trams and private cars advertising rehabilitation week.

NATHALIE R. BARR,
The Hongkong Society for Rehabilitation.

dear sir

Very Irish

Regarding "A Don's Fort," I wonder if Mr. Editor also finds the following passages a delight to read: "The only acceptable way of reading the popular Press is through the looking glass; left becomes right, good bad and so on; and by this simple expedient you do get a fairly clear idea of what the rational, sane man really thinks."

N. T. CHOW.

CALL IT A DAY

T. N. Wow: As we stated in the China Mail on Friday, September 22, correspondence on the subject is closed.—Ed.

Ah! Carlsberg
It is worth waiting for

DRINK
Carlsberg
BEER